

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP) DEPARTMENT:

Content & Paid Acquisition SUBJECT: The 'Core Four' Advertising Playbook & The Rule of 100

PURPOSE: To establish Veluse Agency's militant, non-negotiable daily execution standards for lead generation. Advertising is the process of making your business known, and there are only four ways a single person can let other people know about their stuff 1-3. We systematically deploy these "Core Four" methods to ensure our Med Spa clients—and our own agency—never suffer from a depleted pipeline.

PART 1: THE "RULE OF 100" ACROSS THE CORE FOUR

At Veluse Agency, we do not rely on luck; we rely on volume. Volume negates luck 4. If a Med Spa owner claims they cannot get leads, it is simply because they are not doing enough volume 5, 6. To guarantee growth, every consultant and client must adopt the "Rule of 100." The Rule of 100 dictates that you execute 100 primary advertising actions every single day, for 100 days in a row 7. If you commit to this, you will never go hungry again 7.

1. Warm Outreach (1-to-1 to a Warm Audience)

- Definition: Reaching out to people who have given you permission to contact them (past patients, followers, personal network) 1. Everybody knows somebody, making this the cheapest and easiest place to start 8.
- The Rule of 100: Execute exactly 100 warm reach-outs per day 7.
- Execution: Primary actions include emails, texts, direct messages (DMs), and phone calls to existing contacts 7.

2. Cold Outreach (1-to-1 to a Cold Audience)

- Definition: Reaching out to strangers who do not know you exist 1, 9. This is a pure numbers game where you exchange time and rejection for predictable lead flow 10.
- The Rule of 100: Execute exactly 100 cold reach-outs per day 11.
- Execution: Primary actions include sending cold emails, cold DMs, cold calls, or dropping off physical flyers to local businesses 11. Because cold audiences have lower response rates, leverage automation wherever possible 11.

3. Post Free Content (1-to-Many to a Warm Audience)

- Definition: Publishing highly valuable material publicly to build and nurture an audience that knows, likes, and trusts you 1, 12.
- The Rule of 100: Spend exactly 100 minutes per day making content, and release at least one piece of content per day on a platform 7, 11.
- Execution: Primary actions include recording short/long-form videos, writing articles, or designing infographics 11. As your efficiency improves, scale this to posting even more frequently 11.

4. Run Paid Ads (1-to-Many to a Cold Audience)

- Definition: Trading money for guaranteed reach by paying platforms to place your offer in front of strangers 1, 13.
- The Rule of 100: Spend exactly 100 minutes per day creating and researching paid ads, while spending at least $100 per day on ad placement 11, 14, 15.
- Execution: Primary actions involve researching competitors' hooks, writing copy, recording videos, and launching direct response media campaigns 11.

PART 2: THE A.C.A. MESSAGING METHOD (For Cold & Warm DMs)

When doing outreach—especially turning lukewarm social media followers into high-paying Med Spa consults—you cannot sound like a robotic spammer. You must act like a human 16. When a prospect replies to your initial message or engages with your content, we universally deploy the A-C-A (Acknowledge, Compliment, Ask) framework to seamlessly guide the conversation toward a booked calendar appointment 17, 18.

- Acknowledge (A): Restate what the prospect just said in your own words 16, 19. This psychological trigger proves you are actively listening rather than just waiting for your turn to pitch 16, 19.
- Example: "Two kids... and you're an accountant..." 16, 19.
- Compliment (C): Compliment them on the information they just shared. Whenever possible, tie their situation to a positive character trait 16, 19.
- Example: "...Wow! You must be a super mom working full-time and managing two kids!" 20.
- Ask (A): Transition immediately into a question that guides them toward the service or outcome you sell 20.
- Example: "...How do you even find the time to eat right and take care of yourself?" 20.

Once the prospect responds to the Ask and reveals their pain point, immediately pitch a quick phone call to offer them free resources or a consultation, prioritizing speed to secure the meeting 21.

PART 3: THE "100 MINUTES OF CONTENT" RULE FOR ORGANIC GROWTH

At Veluse Agency, we treat organic content not as a vanity metric, but as an essential daily operational requirement. If a Med Spa owner or agency consultant is not dedicating 100 minutes a day to content creation, they are capping their own growth 7, 11.

The Organic Mandate:

1. The 100-Minute Block: You must spend 100 dedicated minutes every single day scripting, recording, and editing content 7, 15. This is not passive scrolling; this is active production.
2. Daily Release: You must release at least one piece of content per day on a chosen platform 11. Volume is the ultimate variable; if you double your inputs, you will predictably double your engaged leads 7.
3. The Compound Effect: Posting free content allows you to say your message once and reach hundreds or thousands of people, making it far more efficient than 1-to-1 outreach 12. As you consistently deposit goodwill by rewarding your audience with valuable content, your warm audience grows 12, 22.
4. Fueling the Rest of the Engine: Free content makes all other advertising more effective 23. When our Med Spa clients run paid ads or do cold outreach, prospects will inevitably search for their clinic online 23, 24. If the prospect finds hundreds of minutes of highly valuable, professional content, they are exponentially more likely to trust the clinic and buy 23.

Operational Directive: If you are not at your revenue target, the first four hours of your day must be spent entirely on promotion: making content, doing outreach, and running ads 25, 26. Execute the 100 minutes of content creation daily without fail.
