

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP) DEPARTMENT:

Revenue Architecture & Lead Acquisition SUBJECT: The Lead Magnet Creation Checklist & Problem-Solution Stacking

PURPOSE: To establish Veluse Agency's militant standard for engineering flawless lead magnets. To scale our Med Spa AI-infrastructure and BioOps enterprise, we must systematically convert cold traffic into highly qualified, engaged leads. This protocol dictates the exact psychological mechanics of solving narrow problems to intentionally trigger massive, high-ticket demand for our core services.

PART 1: THE DEFINITION OF A FLAWLESS LEAD MAGNET

Amateur agencies mistakenly believe a lead magnet is simply giving away a "free taste" or a partial, chopped-up piece of their core service (e.g., giving the first 6 minutes of a 12-minute video) 1. This is fundamentally incorrect and destroys trust 1.

A flawless lead magnet is a complete solution to a narrowly defined problem 1, 2. It must provide instant perceived value and be incredibly fast and easy for the prospect to consume 3, 4.

The "Kiss" Analogy: To understand the architecture of a perfect lead magnet, we look at one of the most effective examples ever deployed in the dating market: "How to know if a girl wants you to kiss her" 3, 5. This is a massive, high-anxiety problem for a specific avatar on a date 3. The lead magnet provides a complete, hyper-specific solution: Try to brush her hair behind her ear 3, 5. If she moves her head away, she does not want to kiss you; if she leans in or stays still, she does 3, 5.

This solves one specific problem perfectly, rapidly, and completely 3. For our Med Spa clients, our lead magnets must follow this exact framework: we isolate one tiny, agonizing operational or marketing constraint and we provide a tool, script, or system that solves it flawlessly.

PART 2: THE PROBLEM-SOLUTION CYCLE (INTRODUCING THE NEXT MASSIVE PROBLEM)

The ultimate strategic purpose of a lead magnet is not just to give away free value; it is to intentionally trigger the Problem-Solution Cycle 6, 7.

Every problem has a solution, and every solution inevitably reveals a new, more complex problem 6. A flawless lead magnet completely solves the narrow problem, which naturally exposes the next massive problem—a problem that can only be solved by purchasing your core high-ticket service 2, 6, 8, 9.

The Mechanics of Deprivation: Returning to the "Kiss" analogy: once the lead magnet successfully teaches the prospect how to get the kiss, their immediate problem is solved 10. However, achieving that kiss instantly creates new, massive problems: How do I get responses to my texts tomorrow? How do I set up the second date? How do I transition this into a long-term relationship or marriage? 11-13.

By providing the initial solution for free, you build absolute authority 8, 12. The prospect thinks, "If this guy helped me solve my first problem so easily, he can definitely help me solve all these new problems." 12. You solve the narrow problem for free, and you solve the resulting massive problem in exchange for money 8.

We must sell at the point of greatest deprivation 14. If you give a thirsty prospect water (the lead magnet), they are no longer thirsty, but you have revealed that their "dessert stomach is empty" 15. You then sell them the meal 14, 16.

PART 3: THE 7-STEP LEAD MAGNET CREATION CHECKLIST

Before Veluse Agency deploys any top-of-funnel asset for ourselves or our Med Spa clients, it must pass this rigorous 7-step checklist:

1. Step 1: Figure out the problem and exactly WHO you are solving it for. You must be crystal clear on the avatar 17, 18. A lead magnet designed for a 7-figure Med Spa owner will look completely different than one designed for a solo esthetician 18, 19. The lead magnet must act as a filter, repelling unqualified leads while attracting the elite 13, 20.
2. Step 2: Figure out HOW you want to solve it. Your lead magnet must fit into one of three categories:
3. Reveal a Problem (e.g., A free website speed test or AI-booking audit that diagnoses how much money they are losing) 21-23.
4. A Sample or Trial (e.g., Running their ads for free for 7 days) 24, 25.
5. One Step of a Multi-Step Process (e.g., Providing the exact color-matching palette, revealing that they now need the full wardrobe overhaul) 26, 27.
6. Step 3: Figure out how to DELIVER it. You must choose the highest-perceived-value vehicle that requires the lowest ongoing operational drag for the agency 19, 28, 29. This can be Software/Tools (calculators, templates), Information (courses, blueprints), Services (free audits), or Physical Products (a mailed book or cheat sheet) 28-37.
7. Step 4: Test what to NAME it. The headline is 80 cents of your advertising dollar 38. You can increase your opt-in rate by 2x to 10x simply by changing the name of the lead magnet without changing any of the contents 38-40. Use the Magic Headline Formula to ensure it grabs the prospect by the throat 41, 42.
8. Step 5: Make it fast and EASY to consume. People are inherently lazy; you must reduce the friction of consumption 43, 44. Provide the solution in multiple formats (audio, video, written, mobile-optimized) so the prospect can consume it in whatever way is easiest for them 43, 44.
9. Step 6: Make it DARN GOOD (Give away the secrets). Do not give away "sucky fluff" out of fear of giving away too much value 45, 46. 99% of people who consume your lead magnet will never buy from you, meaning your market reputation is entirely dictated by the quality of your free material 46, 47. Your free stuff must be objectively better than your competitors' paid stuff 18.
10. Step 7: Tell them what to do next (The CTA). Once you solve their problem and trigger the next one, you must give them a clear, unambiguous Call To Action 48, 49. Do not be clever; be clear 49, 50. Tell them exactly what to click, exactly what will happen, and give them a reason (urgency or scarcity) to do it right now 48, 50, 51.
