

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP) DEPARTMENT:

Revenue Architecture & Ecosystem Expansion
SUBJECT: The Ultimate Lead Getter & Affiliate Architecture (Project BioOps)

PURPOSE: To establish Veluse Agency's elite protocol for building a decentralized, compounding acquisition engine. We will not rely solely on our own ad spend to scale our AI-infrastructure and logistics SaaS. Instead, we will recruit an army of "Lead Getters"—independent businesses that tell their audience to buy our stuff 1. By turning one customer into a node that brings us hundreds of customers, we achieve the highest possible operational leverage 2.

PART 1: THE 4-STEP AFFILIATE ARMY BLUEPRINT

Building an affiliate army requires us to treat potential affiliates not as unpaid marketers, but as a specialized tier of customers 1, 3. We must run them through a militant four-step acquisition pipeline:

Step 1: Find Your Ideal Affiliates The ideal affiliate has a business with a warm audience full of people exactly like your target customers 4. To find them, Veluse executives must ask: What do our Med Spa clients buy? Who provides that stuff? Where do they go? 5. We are looking for the central hubs—the businesses that already have our leads 5. In the Med Spa space, this could be medical device manufacturers, specialized accounting firms, or aesthetic training academies.

Step 2: Make Them An Offer We do not approach affiliates asking for favors. We approach them with a Grand Slam Offer that provides a new, effortless way for them to make money 1, 6. The core pitch must explicitly state: We will help you make more money from your current customers, with a high chance of success, without you needing to build, deliver, or support the product yourself, and you can start tomorrow 7. We can offer them money, free stuff, or both in exchange for their engaged leads 1.

Step 3: Qualify Them We do not accept every affiliate who raises their hand. Potential affiliates only become actual affiliates when they invest their time, their money, or invest in the product itself 8. We enforce this through two qualification methods:

- Make them a customer: If they do not believe in the Veluse infrastructure enough to buy and use it themselves, they cannot sell it 9.
- Make them an expert: We charge them a fee (typically 10-20% of what an active affiliate makes in a year) to undergo our official certification and onboarding 9, 10. This covers our advertising costs, forces them to pay attention, and ensures they are highly trained 8, 10.

Step 4: Compensate (Figure Out What To Pay Them) We calculate compensation based on our Maximum Allowable Cost to Acquire a Customer (CAC) 11. If our target LTV to CAC ratio is 3:1, and a client's Lifetime Gross Profit is $120, our maximum allowable CAC is $40 11, 12.

Instead of paying the full $40 to everyone, Veluse deploys a 3-Tier payout structure to maximize our margins:

- Tier 1 (25% of CAC): Paid to anyone who agrees to the initial terms and sends a lead 12.
- Tier 2 (50% of CAC): Paid once the affiliate "activates" by hitting a specific milestone (e.g., launching to their full email list) 12.
- Tier 3 (100% of CAC): Reserved exclusively for top performers who sustain a high volume of active customers 12. Because the blended average payout will be much lower than our maximum CAC, our overall LTV to CAC ratio improves dramatically, dropping massive cash to the Veluse bottom line 13.

PART 2: ELITE OFFER STRUCTURES (BACON FOR LIFE & WIN IT BACK)

To supercharge both our direct acquisition and our affiliate conversion, we deploy two specific, highly psychological offer frameworks.

1. The "Bacon for Life" (Continuity Bonus Offer) Originating from the e-commerce brand ButcherBox, this offer was born from a glitch where they accidentally gave new subscribers free bacon in their first box 14. They decided to lean into it, officially offering "Free Bacon for Life" as long as the customer maintained their recurring subscription 15.

- The Economics: The bacon cost them $4, but it dramatically lowered their CAC and skyrocketed retention 15, 16.
- The Psychology: Customers became terrified to cancel their subscription because if they quit, they would permanently lose their "For Life" perk 16, 17. This converts reoccurring revenue into unbreakable continuity 17, 18.

2. The "Win Your Money Back" (Attraction Offer) This is a high-ticket accountability offer. You charge the client upfront, set a specific goal, and promise that if they hit the goal, they get their money back 19, 20.

- The Economics: A gym owner tested this by charging a man $600 for six weeks. The man hit his goal, earning his $600 back. However, the client immediately used that $600 to buy more training (a rollover upsell), and the owner used the client's before-and-after photos to acquire 13 new paying customers 19.
- The Psychology: You are getting paid for accountability. Many won't qualify for the refund, but those who do become your ultimate case studies and stay on as long-term customers, provided you immediately present them with a compelling upsell 20, 21.

PART 3: VELUSE APPLICATION (SCALING THE LOGISTICS SAAS)

As Veluse Agency expands into Project BioOps (Logistics SaaS), our primary constraint is getting early, high-volume adoption. Logistics networks are inherently interconnected. If we can get one primary Med Spa franchisor or medical supplier onto the platform, we want them to force their entire supply chain network to adopt our software.

We will deploy the Ultimate Lead Getter Architecture to achieve this:

1. The "Win Your Money Back" Integration Fee: We will not offer the BioOps SaaS for free. We will charge a premium $25,000 implementation and setup fee. However, we deploy the "Win Your Money Back" structure: If you successfully mandate that 10 of your downstream clinics or third-party logistics vendors onboard onto our free portal within the first 60 days, we will refund 100% of your $25,000 implementation fee.

- The Result: The central hub company acts as our Tier-3 Affiliate. They enforce compliance across their network for us, doing the hard sales work because they want their $25,000 back. Once they earn it back, Veluse instantly deploys a Rollover Upsell, offering to apply that $25,000 directly toward an annual enterprise SaaS license or custom Veluse AI-marketing buildouts 22, 23.

2. The "Compliance for Life" (Bacon for Life) Offer: To ensure zero churn from these newly acquired supply chain nodes, we deploy a "Bacon for Life" continuity perk.

- The Pitch: Every downstream clinic or vendor that joins the network via the parent company's mandate receives "Free Automated FDA Compliance Tracking for Life," provided they process a minimum of $5,000 in freight through our software every month.
- The Result: The cost to deliver this automated compliance report to the downstream clinics is near-zero for Veluse 24. However, the perceived value to a medical facility is massive. They will refuse to ever churn off our logistics SaaS because canceling means permanently losing their free compliance dashboard 17, 18.

By choreographing this architecture, Veluse Agency forces our early users to finance and execute our customer acquisition for us, creating a viral, inescapable loop of B2B SaaS dominance.
