

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP) DEPARTMENT:

Marketing & Acquisition

SUBJECT: Lead Magnet Mastery & Demand Generation

PURPOSE:

To flood Veluse Agency and our Med Spa clients with high-intent prospects by deploying irresistible front-end value. A Grand Slam Offer is useless if nobody sees it. We use hyper-targeted lead magnets to solve micro-problems, earn absolute trust, and seamlessly bridge the prospect into purchasing our core high-ticket AI infrastructure.

PART 1: THE PHILOSOPHY OF A PERFECT LEAD MAGNET (THE "KISS" ANALOGY)

Most businesses fundamentally misunderstand free value. They either give away useless fluff or give away partial, incomplete work (e.g., "Here is the first 6 minutes of a 12-minute video") 1. This destroys trust.

A true lead magnet is a complete solution to a narrowly defined problem 1, 2.

The Analogy: The greatest lead magnet in the dating space was titled, "How to know if a girl wants you to kiss her on a date" 3. This targets a massive, highly painful problem for a guy on a date who is terrified of looking like a creep 3. The solution is entirely complete and highly actionable: Try to brush her hair behind her ear. If she pulls her head away, she doesn't want you to kiss her; if she leans into your hand or stays still, she does 3-5.

The Psychology: We completely solved that tiny problem, providing massive immediate value 4. However, getting a kiss is just one step in a much larger journey 6, 7. Now that this narrow problem is solved, the prospect immediately faces their next set of problems: How do I get matches? How do I get responses in the DMs? How do I set up the actual date? How do I flirt? 6-8. Because you accurately solved their first problem with zero friction, they inherently believe you are the absolute authority who can solve the rest of their problems 7, 8. A person who pays with their time now is exponentially more likely to pay with their money later to solve the macro problem 9.

PART 2: REVEALING A SPECIFIC PROBLEM TO SELL THE CORE OFFER

When structuring lead magnets for Veluse Agency or our Med Spa clients, we do not just give away random information; we deploy the "Reveal a Problem" framework 10, 11.

The goal is to solve a narrow problem that deliberately exposes a new, massive problem that only our core offer can fix 2, 12, 13. Think of this as a "diagnosis." By revealing a problem they didn't know existed, or showing them exactly how bad an existing problem is, we drastically increase their feeling of deprivation and urgency 11, 14.

Execution: You must explicitly highlight the cost of inaction. For example, a B2B website speed test lead magnet doesn't just say "Your site is slow." It says: "For every second of load time, you lose 3% of your conversion. We can take you from a 9-second load time to a 3-second load time, instantly increasing your conversions by 18%." 14.

When you clearly articulate the specific reasons they are failing, they naturally assume you possess the exact cure to save them 15, 16. At Veluse Agency, we might audit a Med Spa's lead response time, proving they are losing 80% of their conversions by waiting longer than 5 minutes to follow up 17, 18. Once that agonizing problem is revealed, our AI-booking bot and infrastructure become the only logical, immediate solution.

PART 3: THE SEVEN-POINT CHECKLIST FOR LEAD MAGNET MASTERY

To systematize the creation of high-converting lead magnets across our agency and for our clients, every campaign must pass this 7-step protocol 5, 19, 20:

1. Figure out the problem you want to solve and who to solve it for: Clarity is non-negotiable. You cannot create a universal magnet; it must be built for a specific avatar 19, 21, 22. For example, a lead magnet for a 7-figure Med Spa owner looking to scale will look vastly different from one targeting a solo-aesthetician 8, 21. Identify one narrow, highly meaningful problem in their journey 23, 24.

2. Figure out how you want to solve it: You must choose the mechanism of the solution. The three proven types of lead magnets are:

- Reveal a Problem: (e.g., A diagnostic audit that exposes lost revenue) 10, 11.
- Samples and Trials: (e.g., Giving full, brief access to your core offer, like a 7-day AI software trial) 16, 25.
- One Step of a Multi-Step Process: (e.g., Providing the exact cold-calling script, knowing they will still need the CRM, the closers, and the management infrastructure we sell) 26, 27.

3. Figure out how to deliver it: Select the lowest-friction delivery vehicle for the avatar 28. The four main vehicles are:

- Software: Spreadsheets, calculators, or automated assessment tools 28, 29.
- Information: Video trainings, swipe files, or cheat sheets (infinitely scalable with zero operational drag) 28, 30.
- Services: Doing high-value work for free, but only for hyper-qualified leads (e.g., a free custom marketing roadmap for a verified 7-figure clinic) 31, 32.
- Physical Products: Mailing a tangible item that proves immediate authority 31, 33.

4. Test what to name it: You can spend 2 years building the product, but the headline determines your engagement 34, 35. When you write your headline, you have spent 80 cents of your advertising dollar 36. The name must be intensely compelling. Test the headline, the image, and the sub-headline (in that order) 36. Formula: Number + Outcome + Timeframe (e.g., "3 AI Scripts That Book High-Ticket Consults in 24 Hours") 37.

5. Make it easy to consume: People default to the path of least effort. Deliver the solution in multiple formats (audio, written, video, mobile-friendly) so they can consume it exactly how they prefer 38, 39. If a prospect cannot easily access or digest the material, the value drops to zero 38.

6. Make it darn good: Give away the secrets, and sell the implementation 40, 41. Your free lead magnet must be objectively better than what your competitors are charging money for 22. 99% of the people who consume your free material will never buy from you, meaning your market reputation is built entirely on the quality of your free stuff 42, 43. If your free stuff is fluff, they will assume your paid stuff is garbage 40.

7. Make it easy for them to tell you they want more (The CTA): A lead magnet fails if it does not explicitly tell the prospect what to do next. You must include a clear, direct Call To Action (CTA) 44, 45. The CTA formula requires telling them exactly what to do, and giving them a compelling reason to do it right now (deploying urgency and scarcity) 44, 46, 47. Make the transition from the free value to the paid core offer seamless and logical 20, 48.
