

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)DEPARTMENT: Sales & RevenueSUBJECT: The Master Closing Script (C.L.O.S.E.R. Framework)PURPOSE: To equip all Veluse Agency business consultants with a repeatable, systematic, question-based framework that converts high-ticket Med Spa prospects by transferring conviction over a bridge of trust 1, 2.

PHASE 1: CLARIFY (C)

Psychological Objective: Establish the exact problem and the prospect's real motive for taking the call 3, 4. Prospects do not hop on sales calls just to collect random information; they are experiencing pain and actively seeking a solution 5, 6. We must extract their core reason for engaging with us today 4, 7.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "What specifically piqued your interest in reaching out to us today?" 4, 8.
2. "Zooming out for a second, what is the big goal, and how soon are you looking to do this by?" 4, 9-11.
3. "You wouldn't have spent valuable time speaking with me unless something was going on, so what really brought you here today?" 12.

PHASE 2: LABEL (L)

Psychological Objective: Restate and confirm the problem so the Med Spa owner feels deeply understood and validated 4, 13, 14. You cannot cure the prospect's "cancer" unless they admit they have it 6, 15. Identifying this gap between where they are and where they want to be is the foundation of the sale 16.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "So, what I'm hearing is recap their current state and your main challenge has been missing piece. Does that sound right?" 4, 17.
2. "So, to make sure I understand, you're not getting enough leads for your business month after month?" 18, 19.
3. "Out of everything you mentioned, what do you think is the number one obstacle to hitting their stated goal?" 16.

PHASE 3: OVERVIEW (O)

Psychological Objective: Detail the "Pain Cycle" by exploring their past failures, attempted solutions, and previous investments 4, 17, 20. This builds a bridge of trust by demonstrating our mastery of their journey, depletes their motivation to stick with the status quo, and prevents "I've tried that already" objections later 4, 21, 22.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "What have you tried so far to accomplish this, and how did that work out for you?" 4, 17, 23.
2. "How long did you do that for, and how long ago was it?" 24, 25.
3. "What negative impact has this struggle had on your life or business?" 4, 26.

PHASE 4: SELL (S)

Psychological Objective: Secure permission to pitch, and sell the ultimate transformation (the "vacation"), completely avoiding technical jargon or features (the "plane flight") 4, 27-29.

We chunk the solution into a three-pillar framework, utilizing short, 30-second anecdotal stories to break their limiting beliefs 4, 28, 30, 31.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "Based on everything you've shared, I think we can help. Would you like me to briefly walk you through how our program works?" 4, 28, 32.
2. "We've seen that there are three specific things that make our clients successful..." 27.
3. "If we solve Pillar 1, Pillar 2, Pillar 3 for your clinic, do you think that would help you grow the business?" 33.

PHASE 5: EXPLAIN (E)

Psychological Objective: Proactively confront and reframe their concerns (such as price, stalls, or decision-makers) before they harden into deal-ending objections 4, 13, 34, 35. We deploy the Acknowledge, Associate, Ask (AAA) framework to handle resistance collaboratively and maintain frame control by asking questions 4, 34, 36, 37.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "Totally understand. It's a significant financial commitment, and you want to be aligned. What specific parts do you think your partner would disagree with?" 38-40.
2. "That's a great question, and it actually shows you're making a serious decision. What would be the biggest obstacle to you moving forward if we solved X?" 4, 36, 38, 41.
3. "If this program were absolutely perfect, would you do it? ... Okay, then what is different between perfect and what we've talked about today?" 42, 43.

PHASE 6: REINFORCE (R)

Psychological Objective: Secure the final commitment, build immediate post-purchase enthusiasm, and eliminate buyer's remorse during the critical 24 to 72-hour window following the close 4, 44-46. The customer usually decides if they like your business within the first 48 hours 47, 48.

Plug-and-Play Templates:

1. "Perfect. Let's finalize your appointment time. Is there any reason why I won't see you on X time at X day?" 4, 49.
2. "Awesome, let's get you set up. What card would you like to use today?" 50.
3. "We are so happy to have you, and we are going to do everything in our power to absolutely amaze you." 47, 48.

THE "HANDSHAKE" TRANSITION (Sales to Customer Success)

Psychological Objective: Eliminate the feeling of a cold "handoff" and ensure a seamless, trust-building transfer from the Closer to the Customer Success (CS) team 51-53.

Process & Execution:

1. Never Make the Client Repeat Themselves: Before the introduction occurs, the Closer must pass all detailed call notes—including the client's specific goals, pains, and aspirations—into the CRM 53-55.
2. The Introduction: The Closer introduces the CS rep immediately (live on the call or via personalized video), edifying them as the expert who will deliver the transformation 52, 53, 56, 57.

3. The CS Reiteration: The CS rep takes the baton and says: "John, I know you talked to Closer and you said X, Y, and Z were your main struggles. We are going to help you take care of this thing, and the way we're going to do that is..." 55, 57.
4. BAMFAM: We universally enforce the rule to "Book A Meeting From A Meeting" 53, 58, 59. No interaction ends without the client knowing exactly when their next touchpoint is, what will happen, and who they will be speaking with 58, 60, 61.
