

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP)

DEPARTMENT: Sales & Revenue

SUBJECT: Lead Nurture & Speed-to-Lead Infrastructure

PURPOSE: To systematically eliminate the "demand drain" of unconverted leads by enforcing militant speed-to-lead protocols and omnichannel follow-up. At Veluse Agency, we recognize that lead nurture is a larger potential throughput lever than almost any part of the acquisition process.

PART 1: THE 391% SPEED-TO-LEAD PROTOCOL

Harvard Business Review published a study demonstrating an average 391% increase in sales simply by calling leads within 60 seconds of them opting in 1-3. Conversely, if you wait longer than five minutes to contact a prospect, the likelihood of closing that lead drops by a staggering 80% 4, 5. Prospects make a judgment on how buttoned-up and legitimate your Med Spa is based on how quickly you respond 4, 5.

The 60-Second Infrastructure: To achieve this, we do not rely on busy closers or clinic staff to casually check a CRM. The infrastructure requires hiring one dedicated lead nurturer—essentially a "maniac" whose sole job description is to be available and stop whatever they are doing to call the lead the exact second it comes in 6, 7. This single hire's cost is vastly eclipsed by the 4x to 5x revenue increase generated from efficiently working the leads you are already paying for 7, 8.

The Double Dial Rule: If the prospect does not pick up the first time or it cuts to voicemail, hang up and call them back immediately 9-12. People are significantly more likely to pick up the second call because they realize you are not a random telemarketer 9, 10.

PART 2: THE A.C.A. DM FRAMEWORK (Acknowledge, Compliment, Ask)

When reaching out via Direct Messages (DMs) to followers or warm organic leads, we do not send immediate, aggressive sales pitches 13-16. We use the A.C.A. framework to break the ice, build rapport, and guide the conversation toward our Med Spa offers:

1. Acknowledge (A): Restate what they said in your own words to prove you are actively listening 13, 15, 17. Execution: "Two kids... and you're an accountant..." 13, 15, 17.
2. Compliment (C): Compliment them on what they told you, tying it to a positive character trait if possible 13, 15, 17. Execution: "...Wow! Supermom! So hardworking! Managing a full-time career and two kids..." 14, 16, 18.
3. Ask (A): Ask another question to lead the conversation exactly where you want it to go—closer to your core offer 14, 16, 18. Execution: "...Do you ever get time for yourself to just relax and recharge?" 14, 16, 18.

Pro Tip: Use voice memos in DMs to break up the conversation and build a deeper, more human connection 14, 16, 18.

PART 3: OMNICHANNEL FOLLOW-UP SCRIPTS

1. The Inbound Phone Script (The "Huh?" Opener) When calling a fresh lead, never start with "Is this Name?" 9, 10, 19, 20. Always assume you have the right number and speak with an upbeat tone that assumes they already know who you are 9, 10, 21, 22.

- Rep: "Name!?" (Tone goes up like a question, then pause) 21, 22.
- Prospect: "Yeah... who's this?" 21, 22.
- Rep: "This is Your Name..." (Pause to let them think) "...I'm calling because you opted in on Facebook for our Med Spa promotion, and I just wanted to make sure you weren't a crazy person on the internet—ha!—and figure out a time that would work well for you to come in. I've got 2:00 PM and 4:00 PM today, which works better for you?" 21-24.

2. The SMS Follow-Up & Confirmation Scripts Text messages should be used relentlessly to drive up show rates, specifically at the 24-hour, morning-of, and 1-hour marks prior to their appointment 25-28.

- The Appointment Confirmation SMS: "NAME!!! Confirming your consultation DAY TIME with Specialist Name. Our address is ADDRESS. Call this number if you can't find us. You'll be looking for this person (Insert picture/selfie of the orientation specialist)!" 29, 30.
- The Ghosted Lead SMS: If a lead stops responding or ghosts you at any point in the sales cycle, do not overcomplicate the follow-up. Send a funny meme, specifically the Kevin Hart "where you at" meme 31, 32. This cuts through the tension, makes them laugh, and yields the highest response rate of any message for re-engaging dead leads 31, 32.

3. The Email Re-Engagement Script (The 9-Word Email) For your long-term nurture list (leads who opted in but haven't booked, or old clients you haven't spoken to in months), use Dean Jackson's timeless 9-word email template to probe for engaged leads 33.

- Format: No images. No links. No frills. Just a single question 33.
- Script Template: "Are you still looking to 4-word desire?" 33.
- Med Spa Executions:
- "Are you still looking to tone up your arms?" 33.
- "Are you still looking to fix those fine lines?"
- Protocol: Any prospect who replies to this email immediately becomes an engaged lead, and your team must prioritize them for immediate warm outreach 33.
