

VELUSE AGENCY STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE (SOP) DEPARTMENT: Sales & Revenue Strategy SUBJECT: The "Violence of Execution" Tone Guide & Script "Sheet Music" PURPOSE: To train Veluse Agency consultants to master the 90% of sales that relies entirely on emotional delivery. Words only account for 10% of persuasion; tonality dictates the rest 1. We do not just read scripts; we perform them with calculated aggression, strategic silence, and manufactured gravity to close high-ticket Med Spa infrastructure deals. ### PART 1: THE "VIOLENCE OF EXECUTION" MINDSET To be in the top 1% of closers, our team must adopt the operating principle of "Violence is the answer." This concept, derived from Michael Jordan's approach to the game, means we do not accept mediocrity 2. Living and selling with "violence" means attacking first, asking questions later, and executing every single aspect of the sales process with absolute, unshakable conviction 2. We attack the prospect's limiting beliefs and attack the follow-up process relentlessly. A script spoken without this underlying baseline of violent, passionate execution will always fall flat, because sales is fundamentally a transference of conviction 1. ### PART 2: THE MECHANICS OF TONALITY A script is useless if the rep sounds like they are reading it 3. To eliminate the "reading tone" and sound completely natural, our consultants must introduce consistent variability in their speaking cadence 3, 4. We modulate our voice using three fixed variables (volume, speed, articulation) and two fluid variables (pausing and frequency/inflection) 5-7.

1. Speed & Excitement (The Build-Up) Speeding up your speech conveys excitement and urgency, successfully transferring enthusiasm to the prospect 8, 9. You should naturally increase your speed as you approach the close to build momentum, before deliberately pulling back 9. However, you must always stay within the sweet spot of 135 to 185 words per minute to ensure complete comprehension 5.

2. Slowing Down & Lowering Volume (Gravity & Trust) When you need the Med Spa owner to understand that a concept is critically important, you must slow down your pacing to transfer gravity 8, 10. Furthermore, dropping your volume or speaking in a lower tone naturally forces the prospect to lean in and listen closely, because they perceive the words as highly important or exclusive 11. This "whisper" effect is a matter-of-fact tone that drastically increases trust, making it feel like you are sharing a coveted secret 10.

3. Strategic Pausing (Creating Space) Pauses are how you emphasize a point and demand attention 6. * The Short Pause: Used to draw attention to a specific, important point in your pitch 6. * The 8-Second Close Pause: The longest, most critical pause in the entire conversation must occur immediately after you ask the prospect to buy 12. Studies show that waiting up to eight seconds in total silence after asking for the sale increases closing rates by 30% 12. You must let them fill the silence, because people believe what they say, not what you say 13.

4. Inflection & Frequency (The Command) Raising the tone or frequency of your voice at the end of a sentence implies a question and naturally solicits a response from the prospect 9, 10. This confirms you are in control of the frame and forces them to engage with your proposition 8. ### PART 3: THE VELUSE "SHEET MUSIC" SCRIPT GUIDE To ensure every Veluse Agency closer delivers the script with the exact same high-converting tonality, we format our scripts like sheet music. We utilize standard word processor functions to provide visual cues for auditory delivery 10, 14. The Sheet Music Key: * UNDERLINE: Slow down. (Used to transfer gravity and ensure every word is heard) 10, 14. * ALL CAPS: Emphasize/Increase Volume. (Used to project authority and excitement) 14. * Italics (with ellipses...): Create space. (Used for short, strategic pauses to draw attention) 6, 14. *

LOWER TONE: Drop your volume. (Used to build intimate trust and signify extreme importance) 11. *

Question Mark (?): Raise your inflection at the end of the sentence to demand a response 7, 15. Application: The Veluse Agency AI Infrastructure Pitch (Read the following applying the exact Sheet Music key above) "Listen, John. When we deploy this for your clinic, we focus on three main pillars... Traffic, AI Nurture, and Front-Desk Accountability. Now, I can get you thousands of clicks... but... if your front desk misses the call, the money is gone. LOWER TONE You and I both know your staff cannot answer every lead in under 60 seconds. It is physically impossible. That is why we install the BioOps AI Booking Bot. It responds to EVERY single patient... IN UNDER 60 SECONDS... 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If we speed up your lead response time... and... completely remove the manual burden from your front desk staff... do you think your revenue would increase? (Wait for prospect to say 'Yes') LOWER TONE That is exactly what we are going to do. The investment for the entire 12-month AI buildout is $30,000. Are you ready to get started?" (Consultant immediately goes completely silent for up to 8 seconds. Do not speak until the prospect speaks 12).
